

Bibliography

Bees, Hornets, and Wasps

- Borror, Donald and Delong, Dwight. (1971). An introduction to the study of insects. New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston.
- Brannan, Charles. (192). Insects. Washington D. C. United States Government Printing Office.
- Burris, Judy and Richards, Wayne. (2011). The secret lives of backyard bugs. North Adams, Ma: Storey Publishing.
- Craig, Gerald and Davis, Beatrice. Exploring science. Boston: Ginn and Company.
- Dines, Arthur. (1968). Honeybees from close up. New York: Thomas Crowell Company.
- Doering, H. (1962). A bee is born. New York: Sterling Publishing Company.
- Farb, Peter. (1962). The insects. New York: Time-Life Books.
- Fisher, E. (1996). Bees. Milwaukee: Gareth Stevens Publishing.
- Funk & Wagnalls. (1957). Standard treasury of learning with Funk and Wagnalls dictionary for young people. (Vol. 19). New York: Standard Reference Works Publishing Company.
- Hawes, J. (1964). Watch honeybees with me. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Company.
- Jackson, Donna M. (2002). The bug scientists. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company.
- Lewellen, J. (1953). The true book of honeybees. Chicago: Childrens Press.
- Metzger, Ina Lynn and others on the 4-H Entomology Design Team. (2002). Your entomology group helpers guide. University of Minnesota. Minnesota.
- Metzger, Ina Lynn and the 4-H Entomology Design Team. Creepie crawlies. (2002). University of Missouri. Columbia Missouri.
- Neal, C. (Ed.). (1961). What is a bee. Chicago: Benefic Press.
- Podendorf, Illa. (1954). The true book of insects. Chicago: Children's Press.
- Rowan, J. (1993). Honeybees. Vero Beach, Florida: The Rourke Corporation, Inc.

- Shuttlesworth, D. (1967). All kinds of bees. New York: Random House.
- Sterling, D. (1954). Insects and the homes they build. New York: Doubleday.
- Tibbets, Albert. (1952). The first book of bees. New York: Franklin Watts, Inc.
- Waldbauer, G. (1996). Insects through the seasons. Cambridge, Massachusetts: Harvard University Press.
- Woodward, J. (2001). Honeybees. Danbury, Connecticut: Grolier Educational.
- Woodward, J. (1997). Insects. Milwaukee: Gareth Stevens Publishing.
- Young, Allen M. (2000). Small creatures and ordinary places. Madison, Wisconsin: The University of Wisconsin Press.
- Zim, Herbert and Cottam, Clarence. Insects. New York: Simon and Schuster.
- Zurcher, Tom and others. (1997). What's bugging you?. Minnesota: University of Minnesota.

(Revised – September 10, 2019)